Liſbon, May 9 On the 2d Inſtant, at one a Clock in the Morning, the Queen of Portugal was brought to Bed of a Prince, who was preſently Chriſtened by the Name of Charles. Upon this Occaſion we had Illuminations three Nights ſucceſſively

Vienna, May 9. On the 7th in the Morning the Emperour, attended by Prince Eugene of Savoy, and ſeveral other Miniſters and Generals, took a Review of the three Regiments of Baden-Dourlach, young Lorrain, and Harrach; and afterwards ſaw two of the Veſſels launched that are building here for the War in Hungary. In the Evening his Imperial Majeſty went to Luxemburg-Caſtle, as is uſual in this Seaſon, and was followed yeſterday by the Chanceries. He came back this Day, but will return thither to Morrow, and be here every Saturday and Sunday as long as the Empreſs is in Child-bed. Yeſterday Count Herberſtein, Marſhal of the Court, was declared Captain of his Imperial Majeſty's Horſe-Guard, in the Room of Count Uleſeld lately deceaſed.

Ratiſbon, May 14. We have Letters from the Frontiers of Hungary, which ſay that General Lonelholtz, Governour of Peterwaradin, had Orders from the Imperial Court, that if the Courier lately ſent to Conſtantinople with the Emperour's laſt Offer of his Mediation, between the Port and the Venetians, ſhould not come back to Peterwaradin by the 15th Inſtant at Midnight, he ſhould then immediately diſpatch an Expreſs to Vienna, and the next Day ſend to Belgrade to declare War againſt the Port, as would afterwards be done at Vienna. He had alſo Orders to ſtop any Turkiſh Boats which ſhould be ſent up the River Save with Ammunition. But as theſe Directions were given before an Expreſs from Sir Robert Sutton (the Britiſh Ambaſſadour at the Port) arrived at Vienna, 'tis likely they may have been changed, or at leaſt delayed, on the Notice received by that Expreſs of the Diſpoſitions of the Turkiſh Court to accept the King of Great Britain's Mediation between them and the Venetians. On the 12th Inſtant Lieutenant-General Falkenſtein, an Officer of Merit, and much eſteemed by Prince Eugene, paſſed through this Place in his Way to Vienna, having particular Letters from the Prince to be there by the 16th Inſtant at furtheſt.

Dantzick, May 13. On the 10th Inſtant, the Czar, the King of Poland, the Lords and Ladies of both Courts, and the foreign Miniſters, were entertained ſome Hours on board the Ruſſian Gallies; after which their Majeſties parted; the Czar went and lay a League from hence, and the next Day proceeded on his Journey to Stetin: The Ruſſian Troops and the Gallies are to continue here till further Order. Yeſterday being the Birth-Day of the King of Poland, on which he entred the 46th Year of his Age, His Majeſty received the Compliments of the Magiſtrates of this City, and of the foreign Miniſters: There was a great Entertainment at Court, and afterwards a Ball. The Felt-Marſhal Flemming, who was going to Berlin, being taken very ill on the Road, was brought back hither on the 10th.

Hamburgh, May 19. The Czar being arrived on the 16th Inſtant at Stetin, the King of Denmark will probably ſoon meet his Czariſh Majeſty, and 'tis now thought their Interview will be at Wiſmar.

Copenhagen, May 16. The Frigate called the White-Eagle arrived here on the 12th at Night, and has brought Advice, That the King of Sweden, notwithſtanding all the Meaſures which the Danes had taken to ſurround his Troops, has found means to retire with his whole Army, without any Loſs, by a Paſſage that was thought impracticable; and where, for that Reaſon, no Forces were placed. That King is now encamped at Fredericks Hall, not far from the Frontiers of Sweden. The Squadron under the Command of Vice-Admiral Gabel, is expected to joyn Rear-Admiral Kaas, who continues at Elſinore. The Swediſh Fleet was yeſterday between Dornbuſch and Meun. 'Tis ſuppoſed their principal Deſign is to prevent the Ruſſian Fleet from joyning the Danes.

Edinburgh, May 11. Lieutenant General Cadogan deſigns to ſet out to morrow for London. The Dutch Troops remaining in this Country, are all ordered to march back into England.

Whereas the Officers Widows who have Pretenſions to the Royal Penſion, have been, by His Majeſty's Command, lately examin'd by the Lords Commiſſioners for Chelſea-Hoſpital, of whom ſeveral wanted proper Certificates of their Qualification, at the Time of their Examination, by reaſon of the abſence of the Officers of the Regiments their Husbands did belong to, or ſome other Accident, and were appointed to deliver them to the Secretary, which the following Perſons have neglected, viz.
